BELLEVUE OFFERS BIG VICTORIA DAY HILL

Unusual interest is being shown in the May celebration planned for the 24th of May at Bellevue. The committee in charge report splendid progress is being made in the various items of interest.

The list of sports includes races for all ages, softball, tug-o-war, high jumping, horseshoe pitching and novelty races for men and women.

A real good outdoor program on the grounds near the Rosedale dairy takes place in the afternoon. It will include junior choir singing by 48 voices; various dances, stunts and Maypole dances. It is here the crowning of the May Queen will take place.

The grand parade will start from down town at 1:30, with the May Queen leading.

The voting for the May Queen is gaining interest hourly. The first recording will be given from the ballot box towards the end of this week, and each day next week, beginning Monday and continuing until Wednesday evening, May 22nd, when at 8 p.m. the balloting will cease and the winner will be announced.

A grand concert will be staged in the United church on the evening of the 24th.

MAYCROFT STAMPEDE

Bills are out, announcing a stampede to be staged at Maycroft, twenty miles north of Lundbreck, on Saturday, June 15th, in which there will be general stamper events, broncho riding and roping, steer riding and decorating, stake races, etc. The programme will start at 12 noon. During the evening there will be aeroplane flying and at night a big dance. Bob Jones has been chosen manager and a good time is assured. Signs will be displayed, directing the public to the stampede site, which will be as last year, directly north of the Jones' ranch. And by the way, the 15th should draw an extra large crowd, for it's the opening day of the fishing season for this part of Alberta.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS

No higher tribute could be paid to the weekly press than that paid by His Honor Judge Matheson at the annual banquet of the Board of Trade held in the Speke Hall on Thursday evening of a week ago, when he said that the same high moral standard of the weekly press had been maintained in Canada for the last fifty years.

His Honor also referred to the fact that too often the weekly press did not get the credit due it.

Week after week and year after year the makers of weekly papers plod on, gathering the local news, issuing papers and catching the mails with consistent regularity.

His Honor in his address referred to the care taken in selecting the news and material that go to make the paper.

We feel that we are within the truth when we state that, speaking generally, the average weekly printed in Canada is so clean that it can go into any family home and be read by the parents and the boys and girls without causing any embarrassment or a blush of shame.

While progress has been slow in getting the recognition due it, the weekly press is gradually becoming a power in the land—a power which is bound to grow as time goes on.

The weekly paper, more than any other publications in the country, is the great binding force in any community and has, relatively speaking, as important a function to perform in the life of a country as the dailies or any other publications.—Northern Tribune, Grand Prairie.

Judge Matheson was a former resident of Macleod.

A. G. BOWLING PASSES

As we go to press, word is received that Mr. A. G. Bowling, of Coleman, well known district representative and distributor for the Scott Fruit Company, passed away in Fernie hospital this morning, following an attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Bowling is survived by his wife.

The remains will likely be brought to Coleman for burial.

JUBILEE CONCERT IS WELL ATTENDED

"Most Delightful" was the testimony of most of the crowd that witnessed the concert staged in the Columbus hall on Friday night last by local talent in behalf of the King George Jubilee Cancer Fund.

The hall was well filled, and each item was ably rendered, including selections by Mr. Moser's thirty-piece orchestra, singing by a choir of fifty children, tap dancing by Peggy McPherson and Duncan Larbalestier, vocal solos by Miss Lena Fraser and Mrs. G. Steeves, violin solos by George Kerr, Indian club drill by Mr. Matynke's class, toe dancing and general acrobatics by Misses V. and L. Packer, piano solos by Miss Doreen Chappell, piano-acordian solos by Mr. S. L. Trono, and two one-act plays.

As a result of the concert, a neat sum was realized to be forwarded to Lady Bessborough.

CORRESPONDENCE

Provincial Headquarters,
Renfrew Building,
Calgary, Alberta,
May 7th, 1935.

Dear Sir: The King George V. Silver Jubilee Cancer Campaign Office, Calgary, wishes to express its gratitude to all those Editors who assisted the fund by publishing items on the campaign during the past few weeks.

The campaign in Alberta has been marked by a generous response. From every part of the Province, Albertans have given what they could quickly and generously. The records show the direct result of the influence of the weekly papers in arousing public interest in this great fight against cancer. We feel that it is a worthy cause which has been worthily supported.

Those who have worked on behalf of the fund in Calgary take this opportunity of thanking you for your generosity and interest.

Yours faithfully,
IRENE GARDINER PRICE
Publicity Manager.

It has practically been decided to change the highway between Sparwood and Natal, to follow the old G.N.R. roadbed; but to do this will entail a cost of $40,000 to rebuild three bridges, which the B.C. government promise to complete this year. This news will be of extraordinary interest to people of this district, who for years have dreaded travelling over that section of the highway between Natal and Sparwood.

Large posters for the following events were turned out by The Enterprise job printing department during the past few days: Victoria Day celebration at Cowley, Victoria Day celebration at Bellevue, official opening of the Crownstee Lake pavilion, dance at Crownstee Lake pavilion on Saturday night, boxing tournament at the Columbus hall on the 24th, Kerr's big clearance sale and Maycroft Stampede for June the 15th. To give you an idea of what this amount of printing represents, it may be stated that if placed end to end the posters would cover a distance of exactly one and a half miles, or from the C.P.R. station at Blairmore to the Frank station.

BOXING! BOXING!

Arrangements have been made for a return bout between Gentleman Jack Jones and Bill Matynke, to take place in the Columbus hall here on the night of May the 24th.

The program for the evening will include good preliminaries. Danny Lewis, Jack Dugdale and Jack McDonald, three former warriors, will officiate as referee and judges, respectively.

The main event on May the 1st between Jones and Matynke was so closely contested that a return bout is demanded.

The same evening at 9:30, a grand ball will be held in the Columbus hall, with music by the Arcadians.

Arbor Day was not observed as a school holiday in Drumheller.

Coleman are sure preparing to have the real laugh on Blairmore—that with their almost full-time working under excellent conditions, their absence of unnecessary and unreasonable taxation, now comes the building of a dust-free main street, instead of a dust-creating affair of the very worst kind as in Blairmore.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the piano-acordian advertisement of Mr. S. L. Trono. Mr. Trono has the exclusive agency for this district, and states that he has sold quite a number of the instruments of various types. Considerable interest is being manifested in the piano-acordian by young people of the district.

Objection to Angus Morrison, representative of the United Mine Workers of America as miners' representative on the conciliation board to consider evidence governing the dispute between miners and operators of the Drumheller valley, has been registered with the government. Grounds for objection are that Morrison would be a beneficiary, insofar as he is directly associated with the U.M.W. of A., and further that he was a signatory to the agreement.

Planning

In these days much is heard of the art of planning and the dire necessity for scientific, constructive planning in finance, economics, industry, social services, in fact in all the organization of our modern life and its varied interests and activities. Indeed, if a person was prepared to unthinkingly accept the advice being so freely tendered in many quarters, only one conclusion would be reached, namely, that mankind in mass could, if it would, definitely plan and order its way of life, and clearly and authoritatively scale and draw a plan that would work with the simplicity and accuracy of the multiplication table.

But life is not like that; too many contrary factors enter into the scheme of things and life, too many factors, influences and natural laws which are beyond human control to permit of any such artificial planning that will prove workable and fool proof. As the poet Burns so well expressed it:

The best laid schemes o' mice an' men
Gang aft-a-gley,
An' lea'e us naught but grief and pain,
For promised joy.

Two years ago President Roosevelt's "brain trust" decided that the whole economic life of the United States could be planned and charted in advance; that it could scientifically plan and control the production of that great country so as to overcome and prevent what was alleged to be the evils of over-production. It set out to do so, but instead of facing the primary cause of the alleged over-production, it adopted and acted upon the easy formula that all that was necessary was to compel a law reduction in the volume of production.

So wheat farmers were bounsed, not to grow wheat, but to stop growing it; cotton planters were bounsed to stop growing cotton; farmers were paid to quit raising hogs, and so on and so forth, and the consuming masses of the people were taxed in order to raise the funds wherewith to pay these bonuses on destruction. Then Nature stepped in, withheld its usual bountiful supply of rain, sent excessive heat and blistering winds and swirling dust storms, and in a brief space of time reduced production over men's mistaken efforts, and to a far greater extent, until within a few months a shortage of supplies faced the nation instead of an over-production, which over-production had actually resulted from a previous form of artificial planning in the shape of tariffs and other trade restrictions.

Following the Great War, the statesmen of the world assembled in Paris to draft a treaty of peace and to plan the future of Europe and the world. They labored for months, created elaborate international machinery to direct and control world affairs, re-arranged the boundaries of countries, and gave birth to new nations. On paper their plans looked good; they were hailed as a great advance in the cause of world peace and international goodwill and co-operation.

But in the years that have followed all the passions, prejudices, suspicions, racial and religious animosities, and vagaries of human nature have continued to hold away over millions of mankind. Much of the planning has proved an abject failure, some of it has been thrown into the discard, and what remains is in danger of destruction through another world upheaval.

Thus has it been amply demonstrated that man cannot direct and control the immutable laws of Nature, nor can he forecast them in any scheme of planned economy he may devise; neither can a few planners, however able and sincere they may be, draft plans and charts which will work despite all the selfishness, the ambitions, the ignorances, passions and prejudices of man.

This being so, the nations are now being told by the planners that mankind in the mass can no longer be trusted; that democratic forms of government are a failure; that instead of the people creating and controlling their governments, forms of government must be set up which, controlled and directed by a few, will super-impose their will upon the masses, control and order the people, instead of the people controlling the governing bodies.

Such a plan may be inaugurated; it may work for a time, but not for long. It can never possess any degree of permanence, because man was created a free being with a mind, a will, a soul of his own, and in the final analysis he will, because God and his own nature intended that he must, work out his own salvation. No other power, and least of all a government, can do it for him.

Nevertheless, there must be planning and there must be control and direction. Everything cannot be left haphazard, otherwise chaos and disorder would ensue. But it must be recognized that there are limitations in all planning, and those imposed by Nature's laws and by human frailties cannot safely be ignored. Nor can the inborn desire and determination of every man to be a free man and enjoy liberty be denied; any attempt to do so will breed revolt. It always has, it always will. But liberty does not mean license, and in demanding liberty for himself each man must recognize the rights of others and accord liberty to others.

Therefore, in all our planning the improvement and advancement of the individual must precede improvement of and advancement in any system that may prevail. It is putting the cart before the horse to try and improve the system first and thereby improve man; it must be the other way round. God does not remove all evil and temptation in the world, but we are taught to pray that we be not led into temptation.

The proper study of mankind is man, and the proper, only permanent, planning is by individual man, namely, that he so order his life and his activities, so control his ambitions and his passions as to come within the plan laid down in the Golden Rule—Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you.

Chemistry Comes To Aid With Many New Materials

Even eggs and milk may enter the making of new construction materials in a building boom predicted by famous chemists at the opening session of the American Chemical Society's tercentenary celebration in New York.

A boom in the building industry inspired by discoveries of chemists, many of them made during the depression, was forecast by Prof. James R. Withrow of Ohio State University.

Artificial stones are already made in every color and with any degree of hardness a customer desires. Wood rot and metal rust are both stopped by numerous new protectives.

Queen Mary's Tea Chest

Gift From Ceylon To Be Exhibited In Toronto

Visitors to the Ceylon exhibit, at the forthcoming Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto will have an opportunity to see the beautiful chest presented to Her Majesty at Christmas by the Empire Tea Growers. The chest is made of rare and lovely woods—rosewood from India, India with satinwood and ebony from Ceylon and purchased from British Guiana, the woods being left in their natural state at the express wish of Her Majesty. The inlay on the lid has the Queen's own royal cypher. When presented to Queen Mary the chest contained fifteen pounds of the finest grown Empire tea, valued at over $3 per pound.

NOT A RHEUMATIC PAIN FOR 4 YEARS

70-Year-Old Man Praises Kruschen

A man who once suffered severely from rheumatism writes: "For a long time I suffered with rheumatism, and at one time was laid up for about nine weeks. About five years ago I was advised to try Kruschen. I did so, and have continued using them ever since. Kruschen did not trick me, as I have not had a rheumatic pain for over four years. I am nearly 70 years of age, and feeling fine, and always able for my day's work—thanks to Kruschen."—A. S. Kruschen dissolves away those needle-pointed crystals of uric acid which are the cause of all rheumatic troubles. It will also flush those dissolved crystals clean out of the system. Then if you keep up "the little daily dose," excess uric acid will never form again.

Of Canadian Make

Domestic Supplies Medium-Quality Gauntlets For English Motorists

Motorist and motor cyclists in the United Kingdom wear leather gauntlets when driving during the winter. Even during the summer months motor cyclists use them when traveling at night. A large proportion of the medium-quality motor cyclist's gauntlets are of Canadian make, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. While the British are experts when it comes to sheepskin gloves, strange as it may seem, in the case of those made of heavier leathers, such as cow, mule and horse hide, they have to be imported.

A Dangerous Procedure

Doctor Warns Against Forced Giving Of Cod Liver Oil

Dr. Irving Graef, pathologist of Bellevue Hospital, New York, told the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists, mineral oils and animal fats drawn into the lungs of infants and adults had proved fatal in six cases of pneumonia. Cod liver oil, described as good when taken into the stomach for bone building, Dr. Graef said was deadly when it entered the lungs. He cited one case to show the oil had entered the lungs through forcing a reluctant child to swallow it by holding his nose.

Umbrella Works Idle

Because one cannot carry an umbrella when wearing a uniform and maintain one's dignity, the rain shields have gone out of style in Germany. As a result 150,000 people in the umbrella industry have been thrown out of work and manufacturers are seeking ways and means to bring the umbrella into its own again.

Another Surgical Find

Human Suffering Reduced By Operation On Pain Nerves

Surgery on the nerves of pain offers hope of reducing human suffering.

The operations possible were reviewed by Francis G. Grant, M.D., of Philadelphia, at the meeting of the American College of Physicians.

Some of the fibres form the bundles of nerves, just as separate fibres form threads, carrying the sensation of pain; others give the movement orders. By cutting the pain fibres in the spinal cord pain can be stopped in the legs and up into the pelvis. Touch and position nerve fibres remain unimpaired and the movements of the legs are not interfered with.

Another operation severs the roots of some of the nerves, but is seldom used because, while it relieves pain, it interferes with movement.

Seeking to block the "pain pathways" through the nervous system is the latest method of attack. This has been done successfully for some pelvic malignancies and for angina pectoris.

Powerful Searchlight

Throws Beams Which Will Illuminate Objects Within Fifty Miles

Residents of Pittsburgh city gazed in wonderment at a powerful shaft of light that penetrated the darkness for many miles. It originated from what engineers say is probably the world's most powerful mobile searchlight undergoing a test prior to its delivery to the United States army.

The searchlight is a 60-inch giant and throws a beam of 750,000 candle power. Engineers who built it say the light's concentrated, narrow beam will illuminate any object within 50 miles. The "detecting" equipment is entirely mobile, carried aboard trucks.

An aeroplane with a 100-foot wing spread and 20,000 feet high and six miles away appears to the human eye about as big as a wasp.

To find an enemy bombing plane under such conditions—and travelling at 250 miles an hour—would be quite difficult. The searchlight is designed to do it, and expose the plane to the fire of anti-aircraft artillery.

Upholding The British

New York Paper Sticks To Statement About War Debts

The New York Daily News says: "We've received a number of unfattering letters in reply to our editorial in which we said England is right in refusing to pay any more of its war debts to us for the time being. These letters advise us that we are in the pay of the Redcoats, traitors to Uncle Sam, trying to lick the King's boots, etc.

Let's come down to brass tacks. How about our debts to our own people (and to any foreigners who happened to buy our bonds)? We aren't paying them, are we? President Roosevelt has taken 40 cents out of every dollar, and he won't pay a dollar of those debts in gold. Furthermore, our Supreme Court sustained that default. So if John Bull is a nasty old repudiator, what is Uncle Sam?

The fact is the war cost so much that every country which took part in it, including ourselves, has had to repudiate a large part of its war debts."

Farmers of Soviet Russia are to be supplied 257 canes this year to be used in the establishment of new cane farms. The farm in the semiarid Yedich district of Western Kazakhstan now has 2,355 ships of the desert, the herd increasing 24 per cent in 1934.

How Spare Pennies Grow

British Post Office Savings Increased By $28,000,000 Last Year

More pennies and shillings than ever are being put into Post Office Savings Banks in Britain.

The head office has announced that deposits of small savers have reached the record figure of $355,000,000. They increased by $28,000,000 during last year alone. Over the last two years they have increased by $50,000,000.

These large sums are made up entirely of the occasional spare coins of villagers and townsmen in Britain. One of the methods of saving is to buy special stamps and stick them in a savings book. When a certain number have been collected the book is given in to the local post office and the amount represented is credited to the saver's account.

Last year 250,000 "home safes" were issued. These are special post office home money boxes which can be taken to the local post office when the owner desires and the amount in them credited to his account.

The Post Office Savings Bank now has more than 9,500,000 depositors. And that number is increasing by 12 per cent each year.

Are Becoming Important

Aviation Is Creating Interest In Islands Of Ocean

Soon every little island in the ocean is going to find itself important and it is certain that, with aviation developing as it is, places which in the past have not even been spots on the map will become centres of interest. Here, for instance, is the case of the Wake Islands, away out in the Pacific Ocean. These are three small islets, with a total area of not more than 2,600 acres, yet they are to be a point of call on the proposed U.S.-China air route, plans for which are now well under way with Pan-American Airways and the United States Government co-operating.

If on rising in the morning you stand in your pyjamas before the open window and slap your chest with both hands for several minutes you will notice a crowd slowly gathering in the street below.

A Suggested Title

"Lord Greenmantle" Might Be Suggested For Mr. John Buchan

Lord Bessborough's successor at Ottawa is hailed by London papers as the first Commender to be Governor-General of Canada. They will find, before Mr. John Buchan takes over, he has been made a peer.

It would be a cheerful literary precedent if he took the title of Lord Greenmantle, for that is also the title of one of his most popular books. He is well able to support a peerage, though only a son of the Scottish manse, because he must have made a comfortable fortune by his versatile pen. He wrote his first book when he was only eighteen. Even his life of Cromwell sold over twenty-five thousand copies, which cannot have brought the author less in royalties than $50,000. Several of his other books have been best sellers.

He was at sea on a naval ship during the War when, after reading a popular "thriller," he decided to try his own hand at that kind of thing. In nine days the MSB of "The Thirty-Nine Steps" was complete—London cor. Ottawa Journal.

Bible Distribution

Colporters Deliver An Average Of 30,000 Bibles A Month

By dog team in the far north and on foot through every part of Canada, Colporters distribute an average of 30,000 Bibles a month, according to the annual report of the Canadian branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

An increased demand for Bibles in England is reported from foreign language groups of workers in Western Canada.

After all expenses were met, $38,000 was sent to London for worldwide work compared with $23,000 in 1933. Bibles distributed showed an increase of 22,000.

CROWN HISTORIC SYMBOL UNITING BRITISH EMPIRE

London.—History was made when the king and queen travelled to ancient Westminster hall, cradle of parliamentary institutions, to receive loyal addresses from lords and commons in the presence of the empire premiers and other empire representatives.

It was the first time a British king had gone to Westminster hall, where the first parliament was summoned nearly 700 years ago by Simon de Montfort, to meet the peers and commons assembled together. And, as on previous state occasions during the celebration of the royal silver jubilee, not all the pomp and panoply could hide notes of genuine, personal affection.

Their majesties were enthroned on a dais in the vast, gray stone Westminster hall, about them grouped many members of the royal family, while in the hall were members of the house of commons and lords, Indian princes, the empire representatives and the English judiciary.

"The mother of parliaments and her children, grown to full estate, stand now upon equal terms in common allegiance to the crown," His Majesty remarked after thanking the spokesmen of the lords and commons for their loyal addresses.

"The unity of the British empire is no longer expressed by the supremacy of the time-honored parliament that sits here at Westminster. The crown is the historic symbol that unites the great family of nations and races scattered over every quarter of the earth."

He spoke with "pride and thankfulness" of the fact the British parliamentary system had survived the shocks that in recent years have destroyed other empires and liberties. The ancient constitution, ever adaptable to change, had met and satisfied new democratic demands at home and over the seas.

He had a word for those who lost their lives in the Great War and for those who still live on, wounded or blinded, "that we might continue to enjoy the blessings of life." He spoke of the hardships that followed the great conflict.

"I sympathize deeply with those who have endured the burden and the sadness of unemployment," he went on. "It is a source of comfort to me to feel that from these times of trial there has grown up throughout our community a stronger feeling of fellowship of one with another."

And his voice faltered, and there was a suggestion of tears in the queen's eyes as well as his own, as he concluded: "I have been blessed in all my work in having beside me my dear wife, of whom you have spoken so kindly. I give thanks to Almighty God who thus far has sustained me and my people, and I pray that we may continue to pursue the cause of freedom and progress in a spirit of peace, tolerance and understanding."

"You have made the throne not merely a symbol but a living reality," said the Lord Chancellor, Viscount Sankey, on behalf of the peers. "You are more than a sovereign," said E. A. Pitt-Rivers, speaker of the House of Commons. "You are the head of the nation. You have made a household."

Canada On Committee

Accepts League Membership To Study Regulation Of Treaties

Ottawa.—Without committing itself to disciplinary action against Germany or any other nation, the government of Canada has accepted a membership in the League of Nations committee established to study application of sanctions against unilateral repudiation of international obligations. Sir George Perley, acting prime minister, issued a statement setting forth the position taken by Canada.

Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canadian advisory officer at Geneva, has already notified the secretary-general of the league of Canada's acceptance and reservation. The League of Nations committee was named by the league council following repudiation of parts of the treaty of Versailles by Germany.

Besides Canada the following nations were invited to take part: Great Britain, France, Chile, Hungary, Italy, The Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Spain, Turkey, Russia and Yugoslavia.

Sir George Perley's statement read:

The invitation to Canada to accept a seat on a committee established by the council of the League of Nations to consider sanctions against unilateral repudiation of international obligations, arose out of a resolution adopted by the council on April 17.

Mercy Flight

Unique Incident In Aviation History Of The North

God's Lake, Man.—One of the most unique "mercy flights" in aviation history in the north was written into the records, with Pilot Herb Seagrims of Wings Limited, here.

A woman was lying in hospital at Winnipeg, 350 miles south of here, seriously ill. An operation was imperative, but it was to be performed only if the patient was willing to proceed without the consent of her husband, at a small lake north of here.

Details were sent here by wireless, but communication with the man was complicated by the fact ice conditions would not permit landing an aeroplane on the lake where he was staying. Seagrims solved the difficulty.

He dropped a message, asking if the husband wished the operation to be proceeded with, to signal by making a triangle of three lights out of the ice of the lake. The signal was given, Seagrims returned here and the operation was successfully performed.

I warmly thank all those who have joined in helping this most noble and humanitarian cause, and I fervently trust that a permanent fund may be established and thus further the relief of much suffering and distress.

Saskatoon.—Thomas Rowles, Empress, was appointed a member of the senate of the University of Saskatchewan at a meeting held here, to succeed Hon. J. W. Estey, now a member ex-officio as minister of education. Andrew Knox, Collector; J. W. Hain, Saskatoon, and Dr. J. W. Sifton, Moose Jaw, were reappointed. Other business was of a routine nature, President W. C. Murray intimated.

PREMIER BENNETT SPEAKS ON EMPIRE TRADE MATTERS

Ottawa.—Great co-operation in trade matters between nations of the British empire was held out by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett as a solution of some economic problems of the empire countries.

Mr. Bennett spoke from London in an empire broadcast and his remarks were directed primarily to the people of the United Kingdom. He told them he appreciated the honor of representing Canada at the king's jubilee celebrations and assured them Canadians would accept a second place to none in loyalty to the crown.

The empire was a "goodly fellowship," he said, and Canadians were proud to share in it. This pride was based not "on boastful imperialism" but on a realization the British crown stood for the reign of law, liberty and justice. The traditions of British institutions and loyalty to the crown had meant much to Canada in its development as a new country. They had imparted social and political stability in the formative years.

The most notable event in the king's 35-year reign had been the Great War. It had meant suffering and Canada was still suffering from its effects. But Canada had emerged from it a full-fledged nation under the British crown. Canadians did not regret their part in it but hoped its lessons would not be forgotten.

How better, he asked, could subjects in every part of the empire, pay tribute to the king than by dedicating themselves to the renunciation of war and the promotion of peace.

Mr. Bennett dealt with empire trade agreements from the British point of view, said they had helped Canada over a difficult period and brought increases in British exports to Canada. If these increases were not as great as might be hoped it was to be remembered that British goods were manufactured products which suffered most in a depression.

Canada was now an industrial as well as an agricultural country and because of economic nationalism the world over had been forced to develop more balanced internal economy than before. Also because of the debt due in the United Kingdom and elsewhere this country had to export more than it imported.

Jubilee Honors List

Awards To Be Published On Morning Of June 3rd

London.—The jubilee honors list will be published on the morning of June 3, combined with the king's birthday honors list, it was announced here. It is believed the jubilee awards will be very lengthy.

In accordance with custom, the leaders of both the opposition parties have been asked to make nominations. The Liberal opposition accepted the offer. It is understood the rank of privy councillor for Isaac Foot, former secretary of mines and a member of the Indian select committee.

With regard to the Labor opposition, it is understood George Lansbury declined to make any nomination, leaving the matter in the hands of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. However, it is expected Clement Attlee, deputy leader of the Labor party, will become a privy councillor and that the honor also will be conferred upon William Lunn, a former parliamentary under-secretary for the Dominions.

German Penal Code

Will Provide Something More Severe Than Headman's Axe

Berlin.—The future reich penal code, which judiciary authorities believe should provide something more severe than the headman's axe, such as for example the "living death" of medieval proscription, will be based on fundamental Nazi concepts, it was learned.

All offences, now being classified by a preparatory commission, will be subdivided into four categories. Attacks against the safety of the people; attacks against the safety of the state and government; attacks against national patriotism; attacks against nationals.

Death by the headman's axe is too good for those who violate the more sacred tenets of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's code, some Nazis contend, and they plan to condemn those guilty of heinous offences to be deprived of all human rights. They will be subject even to condemnation to death without trial, it is said.

Treason will head the list of crimes classified as "attacks against the safety of the people," it was reported.

Boundary Dispute

Rome.—The possibility of conciliation of the boundary dispute between Italy and Ethiopia was pointed out by authoritative circles, but Benito Mussolini continued to push his military preparedness program.

Ferryboat Capsized

Vienna.—The Tagblatt reported in a despatch from Budapest that 20 persons had drowned in the Maros river near Nagykaj on the Hungarian-Romanian frontier when a ferryboat capsized.

Air Limitations

Great Britain Will Stipulate For 1,600 Planes As Minimum

London.—Great Britain, in preparing to discuss air limitation, will stipulate 1,600 planes as her minimum, said the diplomatic correspondent of The Daily Telegraph reports.

This estimate, he said, has emerged from British deliberations toward making an "air Locarno" a separate item from the five-point proposition extended to Germany by the Anglo-French agreement of Feb. 3.

The plan shortly will be submitted to France and Italy, it is understood. The correspondent said the situation had changed since the Geneva air commission met in February, 1933, raising the minimum requirement.

Retired Astronomer Dead

F. L. Blake Had Part In Survey Of Northwest

Toronto.—Frank T. Blake, 81, retired astronomer of the meteorological service at the Toronto observatory, died after a long illness. For many years he gave the correct time daily to many points throughout the Dominion.

In his early days after his education here was completed he took part in the survey which opened the northwest to settlement and was actively engaged in the subdivision of Moose Jaw, Saskatoon and other important western Canada centres.

ROYAL LEVEE IS HELD AT PALACE OF ST. JAMES

London.—In tones of warm affection the leaders of the empire overseas reaffirmed the loyalty of their peoples to the crown, evoking from His Majesty the King an expression of heartfelt gratitude and the vow "to work on with you in the years that remain."

Not all the glitter and pomp of the occasion could dispel the true family atmosphere as one by one the empire's prime ministers and other representatives spoke to His Majesty and the king replied in like vein. At the outset he mentioned the pleasure it gave him to hear persons from the overseas empire speak of "coming home."

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett was warm in his personal references to their majesties, saying that in their life and work together they had given the peoples of the empire an example embodying the conception of family life "which is the true basis of all human happiness and national greatness."

The occasion was a royal levee in the state white and gold throne room of the Palace of St. James. The king and Queen Mary sat on twin thrones, His Majesty wearing the uniform of an admiral of the fleet, and the queen a blue satin gown trimmed with silver and sable fur. They were flanked by members of the royal family.

Prime Minister J. B. Herzog spoke for South Africa, Prime Minister J. A. Lyons for Australia, Prime Minister G. W. Forbes for New Zealand. Prime Minister G. M. Huggins represented South Rhodesia. J. H. Thomas, dominions secretary, spoke for Newfoundland, now under commission government "but yielding to none in deep-rooted devotion to your majesties' persons and throne."

Sir Joseph Bhore spoke for India, and Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister for the colonies empire.

The king, wearing a bowler hat, and the queen, ablaze with diamonds, threw a jubilee crowd of 50,000 into delight by twice appearing on the balcony of the Chinese room of Buckingham palace.

Despite the cause caused by a sudden break in temperature, Their Majesties stood for 10 minutes in their first appearance at 9:30 p.m., and then for three minutes at 10:30. The king waved his bowler to the wildly cheering throngs.

The inspiration furnished by the king of "wise and tactful leadership" and of "unswerving devotion to duty," was praised by Prime Minister Bennett as no small factor in the success of the empire in withstanding the period of stress after the war.

At the reception in St. James's palace to empire leaders and foreign diplomats, Prime Minister Bennett presented to His Majesty the gift gold casket containing the humble address of loyalty passed by the Canadian senate and House of Commons.

AVIATORS FROM CANADA NAMED FOR WILKINS TRIP

New York.—Reports that two noted aviators of Canada, H. Hollick-Kenyon and J. H. Lymburner, would join the Wilkins-Ellsworth Antarctic expedition scheduled to leave here in October were heard here.

Hollick-Kenyon, of Winnipeg, was understood to be in New York, while Lymburner, another flyer who has carved a name for himself by exploits along the off-frozen airways of Canada, was reported en route to the city.

A projected non-stop flight of 2,900 miles across Antarctica is a start of the plans of the expedition headed by Sir Hubert Wilkins and Lincoln Ellsworth.

One purpose of such a flight, it is said, is to determine whether or not the Antarctic is one continent. Members of the recent Byrd expedition to the South Pole, just returned to North America, claimed evidence had been discovered that the broad frozen stretches of Antarctica form a single continent, undivided by water.

Sir Hubert recently visited various parts of Canada seeking to sign up the two pilots who will go as members of the exploratory expedition. He said Canadian flyers were desired because of their experience with the blizzards and fog of the sort encountered in the south polar regions.

Shut Out Canadian Goods

Japan Decides To Apply Trade Restrictions Against Dominion

Tokyo, Japan.—A foreign office spokesman stated the Japanese government had decided to apply her trade protection law against Canada. The date of application and the products to be affected have not been decided upon, the spokesman said.

It is understood a cable has been sent to Australia urging expedition of trade treaty negotiations and asking a prompt reply. A press campaign, waged for some time, is continuing prompted by the favorable balance enjoyed by the Dominion in trade with Japan.

Canada last year exported to Japan goods to the value of $16,475,000 including wheat, steel, lumber, paper and automobiles. Canada imported from Japan goods valued at $4,424,000.

On the passage of the Canada, the princess was just one of the younger set, entering into the social life of the ship enthusiastically. Fellow passengers voted her a "good sport" and a charming girl.

She will proceed from here to Seattle for a visit to the United States and will embark on the Empress of Britain at Quebec for Europe early in June.

Major C. H. Douglas, who was in Ottawa for a few days en route to Edmonton, said he was "quite confident that effective action towards an ultimately successful conclusion of a social credit plan for Canada can be initiated in Alberta."

It cost the Viennese newspaper Die Stunde 200 schillings (about $50) to poke fun at Chancellor Adolf Hitler for his May Day speech. The line was levied on charges that the newspaper had insulted the head of a foreign state.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, visiting the royal academy painting exhibition, had just entered the first hall of paintings when part of the glass ceiling of the vestibule fell. No one was in the vestibule at the time.

Looking Back Hundred Years

Coal Oil Lamps Lighted Montreal Streets In 1855

One hundred years ago Montreal's streets were lit with coal oil lamps. In April, 1855, the city was asked for a subsidy of $500 a year by the projected gas light company. Two years later 200 gas lamps were first used to light city streets. In 1863, a new contract was made between the city and the gas company, whereby Montreal was to be supplied with 700 gas lamps. The lamps were to burn 21 nights in a month, the other nights being declared "moonlight nights."

Radio Sets in Canada

R. C. Poulter, editor of a trade paper dealing with radio, said at the Canadian Performing Rights Society inquiry in Toronto that Canada now has 1,308,000 radio receiving sets in use. A previous witness said there were approximately 750,000 licensed sets in the Dominion. Ontario has the largest number of radio sets, with 597,983.

Optimism For Peasants

The Ottawa Journal says for the twelve months to the end of March, Canada exported goods to the value of $59 million, and imported to the value of $22 million—a total trade of $1,181,000,000. Is there no message in this for the peasants?

Princess Louise

Daughter of Queen Victoria, She Still Lives in Kensington Palace. Princess Louise, who is 57 years old still lives in her part of Kensington Palace where her mother was born and where, 88 years ago, her mother learned that she was a queen. Princess Louise's status of Queen Victoria as a young woman still regards the children in the Broad Walk in Kensington Palace Gardens, and the children, according to Barrie, call it "the penny queen" through association with the queen in the Victorian pennies.

Princess Louise had the reputation of being the best-dressed, indeed the only well-dressed daughter of Queen Victoria, and it is said by her friends at court that as the years go on she is better dressed and a model to all elderly ladies. Her husband, the Duke of Argyll, died in 1914. She still has her estate at Rosedale, the chief of them Sir Edgar Boehm, who taught her sculpture, and Sir John Millais. It was through her intercession that Queen Victoria waived her rule never to receive ladies who marriages had been divorced or annulled, and at one time her parties at Kensington Palace were the only ones in royal society where artists could be seen.—Manchester Guardian.

Little Journeys In Science

ANIMAL PARASITES (By Gordon H. Quest, M.A.)

An animal parasite can be defined as "an animal which lives in, on, or inside of other organisms." Parasitism is a mode of life, and is not confined to any one group of animals. Every group in the animal kingdom contains some kind of parasite, and some of those most prolific in parasites are the protozoa, the arthropods and the flat and round "worms." The protozoa are single-celled and as a rule can only be observed by the use of the microscope. This group of animal organisms contains quite a few parasitic forms. These include the parasites of malaria, sleeping sickness and red-water in cattle. The arthropods are mostly external parasites and they carry infecting organisms from one host to another. The biting flies, mosquitoes, lice, fleas and ticks all function in this way. The protozoa and the flat and round "worms" are of much economic importance.

Parasitism always leads to specialization on the part of the parasite. Unused organs degenerate, whereas used organs become larger or more efficient. The host furnishes food and warmth and hence, in the internal parasites at least, there is a corresponding degeneration of the appendages and locomotion organs. At the same time, their power to increase in numbers becomes much greater because of the increased dangers of passing from one host to another. Many young parasites fall by the way and only a few survive to continue the race.

In civilized countries parasites are not very common, although they do occur, and parasitic disease breaks out when the least chance is given. In the tropics, however, there is a continual struggle against parasites. Malaria is still the greatest killing disease in the world; flea-carried plague annually claims the lives of thousands; hookworm infests sixty per cent. of the earth's population. The greatest diseases of the tropics are mostly parasitic, whereas those of the temperate climates are chiefly caused by bacteria which are plant parasites.

New Antiseptic Ice Glaze

Will Save Millions of Dollars For Frozen Fish Trade. Prince Rupert scientists of the Pacific Fisheries Experimental Station, where a constant program of research to benefit the fishing industry is carried on, have discovered a "crack-proof" antiseptic ice-glaze for frozen fish, which will mean millions of dollars saved for the frozen fish industry.

It is believed that the new process, for storage purposes, will prevent rusting discoloration; overcome the cracking of the glaze which resulted in stored fish drying out, and reduce the surface of the glaze to prevent deterioration and consequent unpalatability.

The new glaze is antiseptic, and thus kills bacteria on fish or makes them negligible.

Process invented, and already demonstrated by one British Columbia firm, which glazed 100,000 pounds of halibut with every success, is cheap and easy.

YOUR HANDWRITING REVEALS YOUR CHARACTER!

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT (Grapho-Analyst) (All Rights Reserved)

In certain of my articles I have endeavored to answer certain objections that some correspondents have raised regarding Graphology. As a result I have received quite a number of letters from readers expressing their agreement with my comments.

But one correspondent took issue with me, and all because of certain things I had told him about himself. Apparently I had told him that he thought too much about himself—that he was too self-satisfied.

He said that he was not at all like this—but it took him eight large pages to tell me what he did think about himself. There is nothing very much to answer to this gentleman, excepting to express the conviction that if he thought he needed eight large pages to give me his opinion of himself, then indeed my previous observations about him were correct. He thought too much of himself.

In the same mail there came a very broadminded letter from a man of forty years of age. He thanked me for analyzing his character, and went on to say: "Thank you for giving me the best laugh I've had in years—a laugh not at you, but at myself! When I wrote to you for a character analysis I did it with my tongue in my cheek, as it were. I didn't for a moment believe that you could tell me anything like the truth. But you have done just that. You told me that I was selfish and self-centred, and was very much inclined to study my own self-interest. Well that was a good one on me, because I am sufficiently broadminded to know that you have got me down exactly as I am. I admire your courage in telling me the unpalatable truth, although I had asked you to show me no mercy!"

Now, it isn't everyone who can be so broadminded about his faults, but there is a lesson in this letter, and that is the reason I have quoted it. There is no virtue in fooling ourselves. Most people have faults of one kind or another—and it is the height of wisdom to wish to learn about them, so that they may be rectified. The great trouble with most of us is that we do not really know ourselves. If you are an unbiased outsider to tell the truth—and Graphology, because of its scientific character, will show the real truth about you.

BAPTISM

Golden text: Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit. Matthew 28:19.

Explanations And Comments

The Last Communion with its Direction to Baptize, Matthew 28:19. Upon a mountain in Galilee after the resurrection of Jesus the disciples saw him and worshipped him. He told them of his universal dominion—"All authority has been given me in heaven and on earth"—and gave them his world-wide commission to make his power a reality—"Go ye therefore and make disciples of all nations."

He directed his followers to baptize disciples into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever he commanded. "Baptism is (1) into the name of the Father, as our Creator, Preserver, and Benefactor, who rules us, as free agents, by his love. It is (2) into the name of the Son: in baptism we accept, as Peter did, 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.' We give ourselves to be taught, and saved, and ruled, by Christ. It is (3) into the name of the Holy Spirit. We give ourselves to his guidance, as our Sanctifier, Teacher, Guide, and Comforter."

And then Jesus gave his wonderful words of comfort and encouragement and cheer: "Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world."

"Morally speaking, baptism—the sacrament of personality—signifies: 'Thou art the child of God—become it!'"

Told From Tree Rings

Story Of Drought That Lasted Twenty-Three Years

Two centuries' before Columbus sailed to America there was a drought in the southwestern Rocky Mountain area that lasted 23 years. It began in 1376 and lasted until 1399. It caused Indians to abandon entire villages as famine and thirst drove them elsewhere. It blighted their corn fields and killed their turkeys and dogs. The story of that ancient, devastating dry spell, read from tree rings, was retold to the southwestern division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Santa Fe, N.M., by R. A. E. Douglass, of the University of Arizona.

Times Speaks Highly Of Canada's New Governor-General

John Buchan has been described as the "best bridge" between the two continents that were once tied together with Scotland as the further bridgehead. He is now to have a conspicuous part in making the history for the next chapter of British America, whose earlier chapters he has written, but also to bring the distinction of his genius to all North America—"one of the Scotsmen who represent our English-speaking race at its very best."—New York Times.

Demand Is Increasing

The great demand for pure bred Percheron horses in Alberta which has existed for some time has lately broken all records in the history of the Percheron club. Farmers have been buying Percherons at prices $150 to $200 higher than last year.

Thinning Important

"Thinning of both flowers and vegetables is most important after the plants are up an inch or so. With flowers a good rule is to have half as many plants between the plants as are high. This will be about a foot between ordinary Marigolds, Petunias and Asters, two to three feet between Cosmos, and Dahlias, but only an inch or so separating tiny Alyssum, Lobelia and other plants. Well-spaced flowers will be more sturdy, thus resisting heavy winds and rains, and the plants will be more symmetrical. Even the smallest vegetables such as lettuce and spinach, must be thinned too. An inch or so will be sufficient and that is also all the room that will be needed for carrots and beets, because when these things have developed roots an inch thick and two or three long, every other plant should be removed and used, and this proceeding followed until the whole row is up.

Hot Weather Vegetables

Tender beans, tomato plants, squash, cucumbers, and melons should not be planted outside until the weather is hot and really warm. In order to get a long and steady supply of green beans make and plant three plantings at intervals of ten days and use several varieties. To do the same thing with tomatoes one may use a few well started plants, and the others start from seeds along with fertilizer and possibly much water. All garden tomatoes should be staked, using either wooden or steel stakes about six feet high. Trim off all side shoots as they develop, training the main stem up along the stake and tying loosely about every foot. All these warm weather vegetables prefer rich open soil, and many members of the melon family, that is squash, cucumber, citron, etc., take special delight in hot sandy soil. Though it must be made rich with well rotted manure or good garden fertilizer. Along with the late planted tomatoes one may set out egg plants, well started peppers, and the first planting of the late planted tomatoes, have very rich soil and water during dry weather.

Can Save Hare Gardens

While it is important to get a portion of seed in early in order to get a good start, it is just as possible, in practically every section of Canada it is possible to continue planting such things as beans, spinach, radish, lettuce, carrots, beets, and corn, right up to July, and if well started plants can be obtained, this late work may include tomatoes, cabbage and cauliflowers, too. In flowers it would be well to secure plants in middle of June, it would be well to hurry along a portion of it at least, with quick acting commercial fertilizers, if possible, water. Frequent cultivation is essential.

Arctic Flier Sets Record

Makes 900-Mile Trip In Less Than Twelve Hours

New record in Arctic flying was set by Walter Gilbert, chief pilot for Canadian Airways, Mackenzie delta division, when he flew from Edmonton Bay, N.W.T., to Cambridge Bay, and return, 900 miles in one day.

The airman brought out 20 boxes of Arctic white fox from the Canadian Trading Company post at Cambridge Bay, valued at about $40,000.

The difficult flight over the foggy Arctic ocean was made in two hops with a stop for refueling at Coppermine on the Arctic coast. It usually takes about a week because of poor visibility and other dangers of the lonely Arctic.

Pilot Gilbert soared out of the mining settlement of Cameron Bay at 6:30 a.m. with Mrs. E. Paisley, wife of Royal Canadian Signal Corps operator at Cambridge Bay and her little daughter on board and a load of mail and supplies. Twelve hours later he landed at the mining settlement again with the valuable load of furs.

Aeroplane usually makes the flight to Cambridge Bay, 300 miles north-east of Coppermine about once a year on special charter trips.

Sixty thousand flowers of the narcissus type weigh a ton, according to an English expert.

Recently members of the V.A.D. branch of the British Red Cross had to put on an air raid demonstration and the effect was very realistic. The caves at Chislehurst were fitted up as gas-proof shelters with two special air-lock entrances and the nurses had to work under very strenuous conditions. On the left some of the nurses are equipping themselves for the First Aid Station while at the right they are looking for injured victims in the midst of a gas attack.

CHAPTER I.

Dad was worried about something. All through dinner Nancy had been aware of it. Not once had he taken part in the conversation, and though outwardly unchanged (the girl was proud of her well-groomed, youthful-looking father) he seemed, somehow, miles away. When even Jack's spirited account of Exeter's victory at the game that afternoon quite failed to rouse him, both mothers glanced up, puzzled; and Mother, saying: "Let's have our coffee in the living room," went to her husband and touched his shoulder.

"What's wrong, Jim? Has something happened?"
Dad turned quickly, as if startled at the question.

"Something has," he admitted, pulling himself together, as though he seemed to all of them a tremendous effort, "and since the little boy's away, it's a good time to tell you. Don't bother with coffee tonight, Margaret. Come into the other room and close the door. I—I must get it over."

But after all, James Nelson did not have to break the news. It was his sister, always quick to grasp a situation, who asked as they gathered in the living room: "Did that crash in the market to-day hit you very hard, Jim?"

Her brother nodded—wet his lips. "I—I am down and out, Louise," he answered; but Nancy saw that he was looking at her mother. And Mother was looking at him, strangely. She seemed, thought the girl, stunned for just a moment.

"Down and out," James Nelson repeated grimly, still staring at his wife with eyes that had grown haggard. "After all these years the firm's gone under. I think—I fear, Margaret, that we'll have to begin all over again."

"Well," countered Mother, coming suddenly to life, "why not?" She sat down on the davenport beside Dad, and put an arm across his shoulders. "Tell us, dear, just how bad everything is."

He drew a relieved breath, as if the worst were over.

"Not so bad as it might be, perhaps. I can't go into details now, but at least, I'm not in debt to others. That's the thought I held onto when I looked at the crowd of desperate men in the stock exchange this afternoon—a terrible scene."

WEAK WOMEN

Are you tired, nervous, run-down? No pep? No ambition? Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It builds up weak women, improves the appetite, makes life seem worth living again.

Mrs. James Martin of 227 1/2 Main Street E., Hamilton, Ontario, says: "Your Vegetable Compound built me up wonderfully. I have gained pep, my nerves are better and I have a good appetite. I feel much stronger."

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Their faces—well, I wish I could forget them. I went back to the office and just sat there thinking—trying to see my way. I'm fifty-six. It's not easy to start again at that age. Margaret. This house is yours; but we can't afford to live here. What hurts me most is that the hardest part will fall on you—all of you. I mean. The servants, too; they'll have to go. And—Nance was to have had her debut soon!"

"Oh, forget it!" The girl spoke flippantly because she couldn't have spoken otherwise without crying.

"For my part," observed Jack, "I should think this would be relieved to get rid of all that fuss. I'll get a job, Dad. I never was keen on college anyway. I was only going so's not to disappoint you. And I won't need Mary Ann if I go to work. She'll bring in something."

"Mary Ann" was the boy's beloved cousin. James Nelson's eyes brightened suspiciously as he said: "You're good kids, both of you. I feel better already to have you meet this blow with so much pluck. I knew I could count on Mother; and Phil's too young to feel the hurt. As for you two," (turning to his own sister and wife's), "you're safe, thank heaven! That was my first grain of comfort—relief that I'd put your money into good, dependable bonds."

"For mercy's sake!" broke in Aunt Louise. "Why didn't you tell us sooner? If Judy's savings and mine are still intact, things aren't so bad. Even with that small capital you can start again, Jim."

"If you think I'd touch a penny—"

he began, when Aunt Judy interrupted:

"Why shouldn't you? What would I have now, Jim, if you hadn't managed my affairs so carefully all these years? This crash in the market is no fault of yours. Make him see sense, Margaret. Of course he'll take our money if it will help."

Said Mother: "Perhaps he won't need it. If we sell the house."

"That is no time to sell an estate," Dad told her. "But I've no doubt we can rent it at a good price. And if we move to a small apartment, or even into the suburbs for a while, so as to cut all possible expense, it will give me a chance to look around."

"See here!" spoke up Aunt Judy as if inspired, "the place at Edgemere is vacant now. Why not go there and have no rent to pay?"

Judith Hale had inherited the family home at her father's death some fifteen years before; but Edgemere was more than twenty miles from the city, and as no one could stay at a moment, she questioned: "Could you stand commuting, Louise? It would mean a pretty early start for you."

"I ought to be able to stand it as well as Jim; or I could stay in town and go home for the week at a time. I'm thinking about Nance. It seems hard to give up a debut and be torn from all one's young friends at the same time."

This was a surprise, not only to Nancy but to her elders. It was seldom that Louise Nelson, who taught English in a private school, had displayed sympathy of this sort. She considered the debut a foolish, unnecessary display, and had said so repeatedly. She wanted Nancy to go to college and fit herself to be a teacher. It was amazing that in this time of stress and gloom she should have given up her disappointment, and the girl said:

"Don't worry about me. If I'm not to come out in a blaze of glory, Aunt Louise, I'd almost rather be away somewhere."

"Why shouldn't Nance go to work?" asked Jack abruptly. "She's almost nineteen. Lots of girls her age—"

"Oh, see here!" broke in her father. "I guess we'll manage without that. I think your plan about Edgemere is a good one, Judith, unless it sounds too hard on Margaret. But of course I'd pay the rent like any other tenant."

"Oh, no you wouldn't!" Aunt Judy barked with indignation. "It's a pity if I'm not allowed to help after all you and Margaret have done for me. Don't I know that the Keen's have years ago you'd never have thought of engaging a mother's helper if you hadn't known I was lonely and adored the children? And later Margaret preferred to be a housekeeper, so I'd feel I wasn't imposing on you to stay longer. Take the old house and use it, Jim. I've always felt it was Margaret's as much as mine. Don't say the word rent to me again!"

She was so obviously wrought up that Dad laughed a little, and Mother said: "Honestly, Judith, since we must go somewhere, it will seem heaven to go back home. But whatever we decide, Louise must be what's best for her. As for Jack, since this term's tuition at school is already paid, he may as well finish, I suppose."

"Wouldn't they give the money back, Dad?" questioned the boy.

James Nelson glanced at his sister, the inner workings of a private school being more in her line than his; and she responded: "In a case like this I believe they'd refund most of it; though if Jack wants to finish the year I'll finance his expenses."

"And relinquish that European trip next summer?" countered her brother.

She colored, as if guilty of some misdeed.

"Oh, what's a European trip when I've been to that? I'd hate to have Jack change schools, when he's done so well; and you've set your heart on going to Harvard, too. Let him stay where he is."

The boy arose, standing with his back to the fire as he looked down at them. During the past year he had grown an appalling number of inches and like others who shoot up with such rapidity, was far too thin. He said, soberly: "With all due respect to you, Aunt Louise, I think I have a right to decide this thing myself. I'd feel like a slacker to stay at an expensive school when Dad has lost his money and Nance is giving up her party. You say I'm doing well in my studies, but it's only because I'm crammed, and I'm sick of cramming. I'm no bright star, and you all know it. It's a shame to disappoint you, Dad, but I'm not going to college—that is," he added, "if I can help myself."

His father answered: "But I wanted a son to graduate from my Alma Mater, boy."

"Send Phil then. Phil's smart. He'll be a credit to you. Why, that kid knows more now than I did when I entered Exeter! I'm the dumbest member of the Nelson family, but I bet I can get a job that'll pay my board. And if you ask me, so can Bill, if she's a mind to try.

Aunt Judy had been listening attentively to her nephew's words. Now she said: "He's right. I think, about leaving Exeter, Jim. Let him work for a while. He can finish school a year later if all goes well; and the boy will be happier to feel that he's helping now."

Said Jack, throwing her a grateful smile: "I can always count on your shield and defender!" And Aunt Judy continued:

"It's really queer how things happen. It just came over me that I'm out of a job, myself!"

"The very idea!" This was Mother. "While we've a roof over our heads, Judy, you've got one too—especially when the roof in question is your own property!"

Her sister laughed.

"But you see, Margaret, I feel as Jack does. I'd rather be a help than a burden; and while he was talking I remember that last week Caroline Spear told me she was hunting a suitable person to take her girls about it. Always get along with young folks, and if they keep me sprinting maybe I'll reduce."

"Reduce!" Jack whistled expressively. "I wager that by the time you return to the land of the free, Aunt Judy, there'll be nothing left of you but just the bones and skin, like that small, red hen you used to read about to us when we were kids. Those Spear twins are wild blazes, believe me. Why don't they go to Europe by themselves?"

"That's what I asked Caroline. Girls go everywhere alone these days. But it means that their grandfather is financing the trip and stipulated that they take a chaperon."

"Chaperon!" burst from Nancy. "I didn't know they existed any more."

"They do," smiled her aunt. "You see one before you now, my dear, unless I'm too late to get the job. Don't look so doubtful, Jim. It's a wonderful chance to get a trip abroad. But her gay tone did not deceive them. Even Jack knew that Aunt Judy didn't want to go abroad with two restless young adolescents like the Spears. Dad said, after a moment:

"Well, we can't decide everything to-night, and I'm dead tired. The thought of all these changes makes me a bit sick. But I do appreciate as for me, I really believe it will be a relief to go back to Edgemere and drop all this 'keeping up with Lis-'

"Let's get to bed, Jim. It's been a frightful day for you, but after a good sleep things will look brighter. As for me, I really believe it will be a relief to go back to Edgemere and drop all this 'keeping up with Lis-'

She arose, a courageous smile curving her lips; but her hand shook. Nancy's with a little squeeze which she was so sure to feel. "I'm not a deranged daughter, but we mustn't let him guess our disappointment."

Elevators in Vienna

Take Passengers Up But You Have To Walk Down

Like a one-way street in Chicago are the elevators in Vienna, Austria. They go up—but as far as traffic is concerned they never come down again. It is impolite and certainly not according to the rules of the game ever to expect to come down in one of them. That would be asking and expecting too much.

Furthermore, you don't stand much chance anyway, for in most apartment buildings that boast "lifts" or elevators there is no man or means of bringing the elevator to your floor. Once you step out of it on whatever floor you happen to stop, it quietly and darkly glides out of your hand and so back to the ground floor.

Should you wish to go above the third floor, then press a button for one of the courages. Some antiquarian sort of woman goes up sight seemingly from nowhere. With a private key she opens the door into the elevator. As you step in you hand her the necessary tip. This is most essential.

You now find yourself in a small coop-like affair about the size of a coffin. You glide silently up alone. The box stops and you swiftly, if you know your business, open a door. Hardly have you closed it again before the pendant affair has dropped out of sight. To get down to the level again, well, there are the stairs.

In one of the best hotels in Vienna, and one most frequented by American tourists, are five elevators. Four of them are operated by electricity. The fifth is in operation. Electricity costs too much and so they have been discarded. To go upstairs you take the hand-propelled elevator. You step in, either tipping now or at the end of your stay in the hotel, and the attendant follows you in, closing the door behind you. He seizes a hempen rope and with graceful, effortless motions brings you to your destination.

When you desire to return to street level, do you press the button? You do not. You walk down the four or five or six flights of stairs.

Reach California Mission On St. Joseph's Day As Usual

Swallows kept their 68th "date" with historic old San Juan Capistrano mission in California. Promptly on St. Joseph's day they arrived, drove the "swifts", another feathery tribe, and prepared to remain until, San Juan's day, Oct. 23, when they'll depart for climates even warmer than that in southern California. The swallows have been doing it for 68 years, mission records reveal.

It was Sohn's sixth jump demonstrating his contrivance.
